

"One of the greatest challenges for homeless and at-risk families in Central Florida is the lack of affordable housing," Jacobs said. "We're working to address this shortage through ... partnerships to assist the most difficult to house families, and also by incentivizing the marketplace to increase the inventory of affordable, quality rentals."